Every Day Is A New Life

What was yesterday like for you? Was it a good day or a rough one? Was it a day filled with happiness or anger? We often let the yesterdays of our lives ruin the todays.

The following sentence can change that pattern, if you choose to let it: "Every day is a new life to a wise person." It doesn't matter what happened yesterday.

Forget the mistakes you made. Business may have been bad and bills may not have gotten paid, but tomorrow is not something to be dreaded. Every day offers a possibility for a new life to a wise person.

Repeating that thought will drive away the negative thoughts which always try to take up residence in our attitudes. Be happy. Be successful. Have enthusiasm and a love for life. Every day is a new life to a wise person.

The greatest freedom you have is the freedom to choose what attitude you will bring to this day. Choose wisely.
